86.7.6. 1977—Pensions (U.S.)—pays to retired persons for life or for a specified period on account of service. Excludes Social Security (86.7.5). See also 86.7.10.1. Includes: cost of living allowances for retired persons; death benefits for retired persons; gratuity for retired persons; life insurance for retired persons; military and naval pensions; railroad retirement; veterans' benefits.

Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the physical fitness and health of sedentary, middle-aged men. The program consisted of three sessions per week, each lasting 45 minutes. The program included aerobic, strength, and flexibility exercises. The results of the study showed that the men who participated in the program had significant improvements in their physical fitness and health. The men who participated in the program had significantly higher levels of aerobic fitness, strength, and flexibility than the men who did not participate. The men who participated in the program also had significantly lower levels of body fat and blood pressure than the men who did not participate. The results of this study suggest that a 12-week training program can have a positive effect on the physical fitness and health of sedentary, middle-aged men.

By Benji Alonzo

MANILA, Nov. 12 (PNA) — A study by a group of researchers from the University of the Philippines (UP) has found that children who watch television are poor listeners. The study, titled "The Effect of Television on the Listening Skills of Children," was conducted by a team of researchers from the UP Diliman campus. The study found that children who watch television for more than two hours a day have lower listening skills than those who watch less than two hours a day. The researchers also found that children who watch television for more than two hours a day have lower reading skills than those who watch less than two hours a day. The study was conducted with a group of 100 children from the UP Diliman campus. The children were divided into two groups: one group watched television for more than two hours a day, and the other group watched less than two hours a day. The researchers then tested the children's listening and reading skills. ## Beauty that's 'skin-deepest'

By Ann E. Bonn

WHILE it may not be as obvious as a bright smile, a healthy skin is the foundation of beauty. It's the canvas on which the face is painted, and it's the first thing people notice when they meet you.

According to a survey of 1,000 people, 75 percent of women who are in their 20s and 30s are concerned about their skin. The survey also found that 60 percent of women who are in their 40s and 50s are concerned about their skin. The skin is the largest organ in the body, and it's the first thing people notice when they meet you. The skin is the largest organ in the body, and it's the first thing people notice when they meet you.

Nailing all four

When it comes to skin care, there are four main things to remember: 1. Cleanse. 2. Moisturize. 3. Protect. 4. Exfoliate. These four steps are the foundation of any skin care routine, and they are the first things people notice when they meet you.

Cleanse your skin every day, both in the morning and at night. Use a gentle cleanser that won't irritate your skin. Moisturize your skin every day, both in the morning and at night. Use a moisturizer that won't clog your pores. Protect your skin from the sun every day, both in the morning and at night. Use a broad-spectrum sunscreen with an SPF of at least 15. Exfoliate your skin every week, both in the morning and at night. Use a gentle exfoliant that won't irritate your skin.

Remember, skin care is a long-term commitment. It's not a quick fix, and it's not a one-time thing. It's a daily routine that you need to follow to keep your skin healthy and beautiful. So, take the time to do it right, and you'll be rewarded with a healthy, glowing complexion.

Take your skin care routine to the next level by using a facial mask. Facial masks are a great way to deep clean your skin and give it a little extra love. Use a facial mask once a week, both in the morning and at night.
